a blue toast image by Maria Brzostowska of Photolia.com A 50th wedding anniversary © a joyous occasion that often is © marked with special celebrations, parties and gifts. The act of giving the toast to © an immense honor and must do justice to the commitment and love shared by the couple. Make sure the theme and tone of a toast mesh well with the tone of the celebration. Always practice a toast a few times before in front of someone © m to work all the sprains off before the occasion. There are volumes of love quotes available in famous poems, classical literature, films and music. For example, a quote from Robert Browning says: "Old age with me The best is still to be the last of life, for which the first © "Choose a sentence that fits the couple, or look for their favorite movie, music or author to find a quotation for the couple has a sense of humor, think about using funny quotes or some humorous wishes for the next few years of the wedding couple. Use some funny quotes from a favorite author or movie, or create your own. For example, end the toast by saying, "Here's hoping Mary won't negotiate John for a 65-year-old stallion." Make sure the jokes are appropriate and match the couple's likes and sense of humor. If you're not sure, it's... © better to keep from the jokes. Honor the couple by recounting an old family story or tales of their marriage. Use a story about how they met, how they got engaged or a story about their marriage. Emphasis on a more recent story, such as the birth of your first grandson or great-grandson, to complete the toast, if desired. Offer wishes for all guests to a love like theirs and hope that their children can use the inspiration of 50 happy marriage to find similar love in their lives. Last weekend I had the honor of making a speech and making a speech and making a small family reunion to celebrate my parents' 60th wedding anniversary. My goal is © one? To make the speech and toast memorable. You may be facing the same challenge, if youyoumora mora asks to write and deliver a personalized speech of birthday or casamento@ either at a last meeting between the family or at a reception with several hundreds of guests at the meeting. Creating just the right birthday or wedding speech can seem intimidating at first. You start to visualize the event and realize that all eyes will be on you the moment you get up to speak. The stakes are high: The happy couple and all the guests in the room expect to hear a speech that HELPS THE GUARANTEES entertaining, elevating and memorably. How can you do that? Write and deliver a speech of birthday or wedding that everyone to take with them long after the night is over. Hereja~~~~inda the speech I delivered last weekend, worked around a single message. \\Jos35; \Good night to all. I'd like a minute to personally thank each of you for being here tonight to celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of the mamber and dadeira. In a few moments, we'll enjoy a toast with champagne and a birthday cake. Before doing this, I want to share a reflection with all of you. If you've ever walked around inside a Hallmark store, you could have seen a display that tells you all the traditional theme © the paper. Think of it as a shallow so-called for a young couple to write their own story. A gentle reminder that One-year marriage has not yet resisted the time test. The fifth year is traditionally celebrated with a wood made gift. In June 25, 1965, you made a great presentation for me. me. for the hand of walnut wood, I wonder? Over the years, the themes of wedding anniversary presents become a little more interesting, and the traditional gifts a little more valuable: There is tin or fuss to mark the 10th year crystal for the 15th year is and porcelain for the year 20. The 25th © remembered with silver. And the 50th with precious gold. But the diamond-the diamond-the diamond-the diamond-the diamond working hours together. A rare accomplishment. In fact, the diamond itself is © Rare. If there was a geologist between us tonight, he or she could tell us stories about the physical properties of a diamond. The diamonds are amazing. Because of their bright glow, they sparkle and sparkle and sparkle in red, green and blue. They're chemically resistant and a perfect heat conductor. They are the ultimate mineral- the hardest substance in nature! It's for a simple reason. Your bows are strong. I don't know soon, but I do know this: diamond © It is surrounded by and powerfully linked to four other carbon atoms. There's nothing else in nature like this! These carbon-reflective bonds are the strongest kind of quantum bonds. Each tightly connected arrangement repeats itself in three dimensions, over and over again, a s thousands of millions of rods in a Tinkertoy set will just much, much more tin. This molecular structure makes hard diamonds durable! Eternal! It's because their connections are strong. Really, really strong. And to © That's exactly what we're celebrating tonight with Mom and Dad on their anniversary with diamonds. Strong links. The strongest links lead YEARS to develop. In the case of a It takes Millions of years! In the case of mother and father? dad? The bonds began to form when the father first saw the mother around 1945, when they were about thirteen years old in Indiana. Dad remembers. Because his father had something MOMACE's father really needed: a new paper for the broken washing machine. It was a part that could not be found anywhere else since the Second World War was still happening, and many things you needed were hard to find. So, all because of a broken washing machine, the Armbruster family from Oldenburg met. Years later, when Mom was in her senior year of high school, she met her dad at the high school prom. She thought Dad was a good-looking guy! But there was only one problem: he was dating Moma's best friend Betty. In 1952.5th, when the father entered the army. © Betty was still in the picture from time to time. But it was nothing © River. So when a country boy fell in love with Betty, and told Jerry he had to move on, Dad saw an opportunity! And you took it as a sign. He made a new decision. From his headquarters in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, his father began writing letters to his mother in Oldenburg. He wanted to give Eileen a chance: a good girl who was beautiful. Quiet! Not talkative or wild. The mother answered. At that time, she was working as a secretary mom © Tip to Dr. Dalyvado's office, right next to the red brick house he grew up in. Whenever Dad would come home from school, they would se e each other here and there. She found Jerry all dressed up. Cool! Polite. Respectable. And still very beautiful. In 1954.No, after Dad left the Army. © rcito, he did odd jobs for a couple of years, rolling barrels of water in Seagram a.-Distillery in Lawrenceburg Dandy.- doing carpentry work for a local builder's shop and training as an insurance inspector at the Fernald nuclear plant outside Cincinnati. But so far © Hello? The Father had stayed a little more at the lead of legality. They tried to continue dating. But it was the machine that ended. Not once. But twice. In 1955, Dad was for Purdue University to study Civil Engineering, Civil, The mà £ and was dealing with it in Business Dr. consultório. Mendez, à out blindly from time to time. Them in the £ agreed. And them in the £ saw themselves more. But then, about four years later, on a Sunday afternoon in the Hahahan we will see £ 59, straight out of nowhere! Upon arriving in Oldenburg, her father went to Oldenburg in his black-and-white aqüanto, and entered the yard of the red brick house Momaà Mendez in Oldenburg. He paused for a minute. Just to say hi. £ breast and was shocked. Her first thought? Wow! Dad was more beautiful. More worthy. But more important? Heggina à © adult. The mà £ and knew. To this! She thought. Enta £ o have begun dating again. Just a few months later â â â Owens in December 1959 Adventure â night after a pomegranate ¢ semantics of dança in Coonhunters Lodge in Batesville, Indiana, Dad left side road and presented the mà £ and a diamond ring. NÃ £ o has been no word. He knew. And she knew. My father said this: always liked her. If I was going out with another girl, I was always comparing that girl with Eileen. She never came out of my head. strong titles. Very, very strong. The wedding was six months later, on a Saturday Vera £ gorgeous, June 25, 1960. à s 9:00 in the church of the family católica Santa in Oldenburg, Jerry and Eileen made their sacred promises to each other. Most of its hóspedes, residents of Hillcrest Country Club in Batesville, were treated to a dinner at the Hillcrest Country Club. On Monday morning £, mom and dad and £ saÃram for a honeymoon in Escanaba and Mackinaw Island, Michigan. Everyone here tonight know the rest of the story. For all of us are part of it. As the story spreads, they live happily ever after. Which brings us © Ata today. Overnight. And our toast. Jerry and Eileen: Love that A © true never grows old. Jerry and Eileen sà £ o older. Wishing you a £ bênçà the GoduÃna, continuÃ;mos with good health and happiness deep in their diamond anniversary. to 60 years! mora35; If you have the honour of A birthday speech or wedding this year, you can spend a lot of time earlier worrying about what you mean. But therefore there is no need to worry if you follow this simple advice: Decide on one single priori message and devote all your speech around that message. If you have a story that has nothing to do with your message, it makes no difference whether it belongs to your birthday or wedding speech. By keeping up with an A priori theme@a dot $mora} you will find much easier to decide what to leave in and what to cut. In my experience, once you land on that unique message, everything else will fall into place. You will begin to write itself. You can find yourself pleasantly surprised.
